

HEMOQUININE
URIFORM
HEROTERPINE

Dear Doctor:

We take this means of asking your consideration for the enclosed pamphlets which will serve to acquaint you with several of our preparations, which we are very desirous of having you test in your practice.

The therapeutic indications of Hemoquinine comprise the extensive field of anemic conditions following acute exhausting diseases or occurring in the course of chronic maladies, such as convalescence from typhoid, malarial fevers, tuberculosis, chronic neuroses, as well as idiopathic anemia and chlorosis.

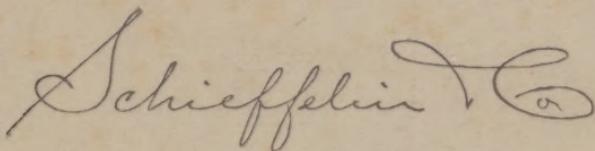

We would be glad to have you test Uriform in cystitis, especially the subacute and chronic forms, in pyelitis, posterior urethritis and prostatic troubles as well as in that form of neurasthenia so frequently associated with prostatorrhea and seminal vesiculitis.

Heroterpine will be found of great service in all diseases of the broncho-pulmonary tract, especially bronchitis, laryngitis, emphysema and pulmonary tuberculosis.

It will afford us much pleasure to place samples at your disposal if you will favor us with a reply.

Yours very truly,

A large, flowing cursive signature in black ink. The name "Schieffelin" is written in a large script font, with a small "J" preceding it. A vertical line descends from the "J" and continues through the "e" and "f". To the right of "Schieffelin", the letters "Co." are written in a smaller, more formal hand.

New York, June, 1904.
